FOREWORD

A college annual should be approached with caution, especially by the administration, or if not caution, at least respect is indicated. Here are not only the records of the year, the stories of achievement, the jibes at failure, but also the unconscious prophecies. Nothing is more sardonically humorous than to look at your class, or worse still, yourself, twenty-five years after. If I were to express a single hope for this issue of the Gale, it would be that those who appear here may look themselves in the eye twenty-five years hence with genuine humor, only slightly, if at all, tinged with the bitterness of irony.

Albert Britt.

DEDICATION

To all Knox men and women, typified by Edgar Addison Bancroft, class of '78, former ambassador to Japan, who have carried their work to the far corners of the earth, and who have helped, by their spirit and their ideals, to bring about a better understanding among men and nations —

The class of 1933 dedicates this book.

The Senior Class

It's a racket—turning graduates out of this college! It's a business just as turning logs out of a sawmill is a business. Who are we, then, to cast soulful glances about us, thinking it will never be the same without us? Waxing weepy over leaving dear old Knox is sentimental drivel. This place is a prison and we'll be glad to get out of it. We live in the Crustacean Age, and we of the younger generation are proud to keep softness inside a shell of suavity. We shall never miss our comrades in the senior class. We'll find other friends. There's a whole Future ahead of us. But the poem haunts us. We have been, if only a little,

"Like dancers who wait, in a pause of the music, for music
The exquisite silence to fill."

Rot! What do we care if college days are ending? We're leaving a pile of outgrown and sadly worn garments, garments for which we have no further use. Let's make graduation a rummage sale! Let's be matter-of-fact and sensible about it. What do we care about Knox? It hasn't been all gaiety as the sentimentalists would have us believe. Our classmates were thrust upon us. We didn't choose them for friends. Why should they be sacred to us? We have been extremely patient to put up with them for four years. Why does that poem insist upon coming back to us?

"And we, who on music so leaflike have drifted together,
Leaflike apart shall be whirled
Into what but the beauty of silence, silence forever?"

Alas, we feel our courage failing us. Bring the ice water and the black bordered handkerchief! No! We won't be sentimental! Our particular senior class does not matter. It happens every year. We are inconsequential. But what is this lump in our throat, and why are our cheeks wet? Idiot! Can't we stop this blubbering? Why do we choke, looking at the faces of our comrades? It must be the effect of that poem. It rings in our ears. We can't forget it.

"And already the minutes, the hours, the days,
Separate thoughts and separate ways;
Fall whitely and silently and slowly between us,
Fall between us like phantasmal rain and snow
And we, who were thrust for an instant so sharply together
Under changing skies to alien destinies go."

The Junior Class

When the class of '33 entered Knox, it was under circumstances which were peculiar for that time. We were the first class on which the noble experiment of deferred pledging was tried. It is not our purpose to argue here the advantages and defects of this plan; what interests us is the effect it had on us as a class.

During that first year we were, as a body, petted and coddled as prospective fraternity and sorority members. We received nothing but effusive tributes from the upper classmen. Thus, being the recipients of pleasant gifts only we tended to build up rather wonderful conceptions of ourselves; at times we thought we were too good for the drudges with whom we had to associate. As a result of this attitude the class earned a somewhat doubtful reputation for itself, and there we were, off on the wrong foot, beginning the race with a big handicap.

The next year, under the influence of fraternity discipline that was always ready and sometimes painful, we were quite taken down. The abrupt change from king to scullion was too much for some of us who couldn't buckle down, so had to leave. The majority, however, showed the real "stuff" and came through with flying colors; of this we are justly proud. The class had shown that it was able to reconstruct itself, able to undertake tasks and do them creditably; that was of real value. If we never learn anything else from Knox, we have at least learned that we can do things, produce results, when necessary.

Naturally, there are numerous persons in the class who have taken part in extra-curricular activities. The class, as a whole, has been active in that part of school life which is not at all book learning, but is still educational—social functions, publications, dramatics, athletics, forensics, to all of which we have supplied a goodly quota. We shall not give statistics on these things. It is futile. There is always someone who can beat your record.

So with all our obstacles met and overcome successfully, this is one more class that is going on to accomplish things and to make itself worthy to bear the name of "Men and Women of Knox".

WILLIAM ALEXANDER

Billy's interests are many and varied, but somehow a certain Whiting Hall co-ed seems to be the greatest of them all.

CYRIL ALLEN

I may be small and puny,
I'm never bothered by the girls.
Life is just a joke to me
With every oyster filled with pearls.
You can't make Si angry, he just doesn't get that way.

CLIFFORD ANDERSON

From mayor's son to the Mikado—just another proof of the democratic social class.

EDWARD ARVIDSON

The prize piccolo player of the Phi Sigs, and do they love it! When not practicing, you can find him with Jean or looking for her.

WILLIAM ASHBAUGH

Here's a Lambda Chi who would have been an asset to any varsity team. But we're glad he chose Knox.

PERRY BAILY

Didja ever have Perry tell you about Saturday nights in Galesburg? It's a good story, the way he tells it.

EMIL BANSBACH

This curly-headed Beta has a dry humor all his own. He is as independent as the Fourth of July.

RICHARD BELL

This boy is one hard working chap, 5 days of the week. Of course he has to make up time since his week-end trips to Springfield occupy him so completely.

ARVID BERGSTROM

This tall blonde is quite the ladies' man, receiving his training from the Western State, Iowa. And in addition he's taking this business of going to school seriously. At any rate, he has a rep for being bright in ethics.

RUSSELL BERGSTROM

He's been so busy managing football trips and business affairs for the Siwasher, the world hasn't seen much of him. Maybe next year will bring a change and give us a break.

JESSE BOGUE

Bogue leads a gay life—what with editing this book and keeping a full social calendar.

FRANCES BOHLE

It almost broke Fran's heart when Wayne King got married, but she still stays up until eleven to listen to him—He appeals to her artistic temperament.

LEON BONDI

He went to Lombard, then to Beloit, then he came here. Children dear, this is a true Man of the World.

LESTER BOWLES

The man the optometrists are looking for: glasses make his pleasing features more handsome. Les always seems to be going or coming in a hurry, but we have never found out where.

IRMA BRODMAN

A great deal of charm
Lots of laughter
Never an alarm
An assiduous worker.

CLARENCE BROWNE

Besides being a hot fireman, Clarence can dance, play the accordian, and in general do things up Browne.

VIRGINIA BUSSE

Ginny doesn't make much noise about things but she's a good friend—Ask those who know her. And she manages to rope in her share of A's.

ALLEN CENTER

Pete is the junior debater who talks himself in and out of hanging his pin—Frosh—Beware! He's dangerous.

ERMA COFFMAN

Pete's achievements speak for themselves—What with her blonde hair and the W. K. (well-known) figure of Diana, we predict a future for our W. S. G. A. president.

COMER CRANDALL

"Cran" is a junior but is often mistaken for a frosh because of his juvenile associate. He is the proud possessor of a car (?) which resembles an over-worked tomato can.

MARY DeCOSTER

A Beta man
A green-wheeled Ford
A dreamy dancer
And never bored.

WILLIAM DEWEY

Pleasant, unassuming, and well-dressed, Bill is good atmosphere for any campus, but he keeps himself too securely hidden to play many leading parts.

WINIFRED DONLEA

Irish eyes and curly hair,
A saucy smile and a roguish air,
A toss of her head,
And the "Devil May Care".

FRIEDA ELLERBRAKE

Uh huh! Another preacher's daughter—You can never tell about them. Just ask Frieda about her grandfather. It's an interesting story, but chances are she won't tell you.

AGNES ELLERBRAKE

Some people had a hard time telling Agnes and her twin apart when she came this year, but it's really easy—If you knew her as well as some of us do, you'd know what to look for.

HARRIET EMERSON

Martial music has its appeal and she loves to follow the drum major—Wish you would let more of us know you, Emmy, and then for one thing this ditty wouldn't be so hard to write.

LILLIAN EVANS

When Lil isn't some place else, she may be found in the library. She's a swell person to have around and does she ever have a mean eye for the basket!

KATHRYN FLEMING

A husky voice, comely features, a flashing smile, a president's choice.

VICTOR FRARY

Vic has a lot of wind for such a little man, nor does he use it all in those long races. You can't hold that against him, however, because he's a good little boy.

SHARDLOW HANSEN

Nothing ever bothers this blonde boy. He never has much to say, but there's a dry humor in his few words.

FRED HAPKE

You would know that Hapke comes from the country with one glance at his complexion. But just because he's from the country doesn't mean he won't make a name for himself. Just look how close to the Presidency he is already.

ROBERTA HARLAN

One of our feminine athletes and a true good sport. We're glad she'll be with us another year for Berta is everybody's friend.

RALPH HARPER

It's no use, folks. He has no family skeletons. His innocent expression asserts a belief in Santa Claus.

SCOTT HARROD

Scott's doing his bit for the Betas—managing the business end of this production, pulling his share of A's, etc. And besides all that, we think Scott's a swell fellow.

FRANCIS HAYES

From soles to souls in ten steps by Hayes. He'll attract his congregation in more ways than one.

DUVAL HESS

Everyone admires a man with ability. Duvie is just such a man, always a book under his arm, but he does study them. Say! and can he draw! carpentry, xylophone and piano are more of his abilities.

EDWARD HESSON

We wonder what lies beneath that faintly sardonic smile. Ed is a real fellow with lots of hidden qualities. If he had lived in the time of Nero, he would have started a revolution. We're betting on you, Ed, when you strike the cold world.

MARIE HOERTZ

Marie only came this year, but she has joined the Knox family very quickly. A successful combination of common sense and good will. We don't know a single thing against her.

BERNARD HOFFMAN

This Fiji furnished the best argument for co-education. He's an embryo politician preparing to study law, but he isn't logical because he doesn't prefer blondes.

MILDRED HOHENBOKEN

Mildred, as the student, the business woman, good pal, and capable Delta Zeta, is a wise and versatile girl.

MARIAN HOUSH

There's nothing that Housh wouldn't do for a friend. In other words she's a good egg and what more can we say?

HELEN INNESS

Though Helen spends much of her time at the libe, she still finds time to make friends and is always ready to lend a helping hand.

HUGH JENCKS

This lad is getting the fine rep of being a social hound. Don't slack up next year, Hugh, even though we realize your pet, the Student, will monopolize your time.

DONALD JOHNSON

He never talks about himself although we wish he would. He is hiding a lot. A nice fellow and a real friend with the knack of knowing what to do at the right time.

DAN KEMP

Prize waiter at Seymour Hall—football star—Leads not only the football team but also the Junior Prom—such a versatile young man.

DONALD KENNEDY

Don's a real gentleman. The twinkle in his eye gives him a little-boy look, but he plays a grown-up game of football and is a champion swimmer.

JOHN A. LAMPE

Just ask Lampe about the orthophoring. You won't get a word in sideways then.

LOUISE LARSON

After all, Louise is a pretty good sport and a very capable gal. Just ask the members of the 9:00 speech class among whom are???

STANLEY LOMAX

Stan's specialty is swishing baskets through the hoop. There's always a cynical look in his eye which is most disconcerting. Wonder if he's been disillusioned?

GAIL MATHERS

One of the finest and most popular fellows on the campus. A good student with no limit to his abilities. He is well-liked at Whiting Hall, particularly among the "Four Horsemen". We all have a place in our heart for Gale.

DOROTHY McCOY

Kindly, frank, capable, always ready to lend a helping hand. She possesses all the qualities of a true friend.

THOMAS MATKOVIC

Tom hides his real personality under a rather brusque manner—straight A's—football honors, Lambda Chi president. That's quite a lot for one man, we'd say.

RUTH MERDIAN

Big-hearted, generous Sophe, without a speck of conceit in her make-up. She doesn't always believe in finishing her tests. Says it's better to stop before you get too discouraged.

LOUISE MILGRIM

Not everyone knows Louise, but those who do, know that she'll make a name for herself in the artistic world.

DALE MILLER

It looked like the profs had put curtains on this boy's track, but the Curtins came down from the east—so, lo and behold, Miller's back in the running.

MILDRED MILLER

Mildred is one of our very studious and conscientious girls. Few of us have had the privilege of knowing her well, but those who have have profited by her acquaintance.

JOHN MOLINE

"Uncle Bud" hails from Paxton. We were unable to discover his interests and have concluded that he must be one of these silent benefactors of the race. Incidentally he can play football.

LOUIS MONACO

Cicero adds stability to a certain frat, so we have heard. Louie may set the world, or Science Hall on fire someday with his brilliance.

MARY MOORE

If it weren't for her steady manner and that Ford, the Pi Phis would be sunk chickens.

MARION MOWAT

You'll generally find Marion in the gym, libe, or lab. Somehow she manages to excel in all—a good scholar, good athlete and good chemist.

LOUISE NAUMAN

A summer night
A hidden moon
Silk pajamas
And breakfast at noon.

GRACE NELSON

Woman, cover up those eyes before you hook
the whole football team.

PEARL OBERG

A beaming smile
A generous heart
With actors professional Plays her part.

TERUO OKADA

He's made himself at home at Knox. Everyone likes him; and we hope that he's at home in this book.

HELEN ORTMAN

Ortie, a little name, a little girl—but there's Oh! so much there. A wonderful sense of humor, lots of brain and ability, plenty of pep, a bit of stubbornness—and oh! those fits.

ROBERT OSTLER

As a preacher, he is certainly something to look up to. And as a Beta, he has the old fraternity right at heart.

JEROME PAUL

Jerry came all the way from New York to play football for old Siwash and we'd say he's doing a darn good job of it.

MARGARET POST

Peter Pan—with enough serious moments to have made her one of the outstanding girls on the campus. If Post is your friend, you're lucky. But why go on—she is one grand girl.

GEAN REID

Jezebol, Joh, Jeremiah, keep Gean busy. You'd better not try feeding them peanuts, because we have yet to see an opposing team break through the end of his line. He keeps his girlish figure by selling candy to the starving beasts at Seymour.

RICHARD ROSE

Dick is the life of every party; maybe social chairmans are chosen on this basis. The world thinks Dick is a fine chap. Ask Kate about his fine points.

ILAH RUTHERFORD

Well, Ilah, Harry certainly should be thankful to Knox for merging with Lombard. Your mathematical mind should assure Harry that you always budget your allowance.

ETTA SASS

Etta is a girl who has time for everything and everybody. She spends much time in the chemistry lab and the conservatory. She is known for her willingness to help underclass girls with hard lessons.

BELUAH SIMONSON

We wish we could look as well-dressed up on every occasion as "Boots" does. And did she get that drawl in Florida, we wonder.

EDITH SMITH

An artist's way
A writer's style
A serious countenance
A naive smile.

CHARLES SOWELL

S'prise! S'prise! No one else knew it either, not even Charlie.

ROBERT SPRINGER

We won't repeat "precious things come in little packages" again—But if we were to repeat it, we might well apply it to Bob.

BAILEY SUTFIN

Too bad he wasn't called Stufin. He stuffs the tickets at the games. Even his best friends can't get past his eagle eye.

ISABELLE TERRILL

If I haven't taken a pass at every junior in school, I've missed the opportunity of a life time.

DOROTHY THOMSON

One year at Smith didn't hurt Dorothy a bit; at least she just fits in here. She spends her spare moments keeping her treasury accounts balanced and with a certain young gentleman of biology fame.

RICHARD THOUREEN

Dick is one of Knox's best dressed men—good looking and with a strong resemblance to Apollo. Watch him, girls, for his attachment is graduating this year.

RALPH THROCKMORTON

"Doc" is little but mighty. We have a hunch that he is one of these strong, silent men. His curly hair makes him a feminine weakness, but so far he's avoided all snares. However, there is one more year left for him to succumb.

ELOISE TOPPING

A pretty face
Am impudent way
But always dependent
On a Phi Delt's way.

ROBERT TRASK

What with his spiffy light overcoat and cornet playing, we'll hear from him someday. Why don't you give the girls a break, Bob?

ROBERT VLACK

Bob looks awfully young and innocent. He may be young, but we suspect his innocence.

GRACE WARGO

Here's an aspiring writer whose aim is to do her work in a studio or penthouse. Besides that she has a gift of gab. Perhaps her three years of varsity debate work has had something to do with that.

MAXINE WATTERS

Most of us don't know Maxine very well, but if one can judge at all from appearances, her hair and smile ought to be indicative of a happy and pleasing personality.

ALAN WEAVER

One great virtue is his. He never talks unless he has something to say. Why does he so assiduously avoid the weaker sex?

WILLIAM WEAVER

"He carries himself with the air of a man." Buck is a real fellow and a fine sport. He loves his fun and keeps all the boys at the Teke house in an uproar.

CHESTER WELLMAN

"Chet" represents the all-round collegian. Football, basketball, and the lady from Arizona occupy his time.

MARION WETMORE

Knox certainly gets its students from all over the world. Here's a Senorita from Mexico. And does she parle Espanol and ride horses. But her mind is in Texas—Why? You guess.

JEAN WILLIS

Jean loves a jolly time and her grin is catching. Was that what caught the blond Phi Sig, we wonder?

GLADYS WILSON

You can always depend on our math wizard. You know good things come in small packages.

MARION WITTENBERGER

Marion surprises us every now and then with a flash of acting or writing that we had never suspected. Why do you keep your talents hidden, Marion?

MILDRED WOLFENBARGER

Bunte lit with a great "cheerio" and with it has endeared herself to all. We're awfully glad Bradley couldn't keep her. Although Peoria does have its attractions.

CHARLES WOODS

When they took the politics out of the campus, they took all the joy out of Red's life. All except the little Palmer girl.

JACK ZINSER

Of rather eccentric habits, Jack has a practical business mind and is very clever in handling business matters. He will never be hungry—nor happy.

No pictures of these Juniors, but here's their story:

HENRY BIRD

Henry has many definite ideas about oil, religion and Swift and Co. If you're interested, he'll probably go into detail.

HAROLD HOLLY

Holly carries a lot of weight on the campus, being the school's best shot put. His beguiling smile has been known to have a devastating effect.

SIDNEY ISAACSON

Why girls leave home. Tall, grave, wonderful, dancer, curly hair. Syd belongs to the age when "knighthood was in flower".

GEORGE KASPAR

Sh! George has two weaknesses—blonds and derbies. If he should see a blond wearing a derby—Oh my!

RUSSELL LANE

Not satisfied with gracing all social functions at Knox with one certain girl, he drags in all his brothers. His heart's as long as his body.

URVIN RUNDLE

This boy has a keen intellect which could be used to fine advantage by Knox. Maybe recent contacts made will open up new channels, Urvin.

PHILIP SANDERS

The Beta's Born Bachelor—"Punk" reminds us of a teddy-bear.

The Sophomore Class

The class of '34 has stepped one step higher in its pursuit of knowledge and is no longer a class of disorganized freshmen but a compact group of hardworking sophomores. The majority of its members have been initiated into the inner realms of some great and noble fraternity or sorority and as a result have acquired a taint of sophistication. For those who have not had the misfortune of becoming affiliated with an organization, too much cannot be said for them. But the purpose of this article is not to denounce fraternities and sororities but rather to tell of the merits of the class of '34.

A good class is characterized by having its members in a diversified group of activities so that it may be said that every one has an activity of some sort or another. There must be students, athletes, journalists, actors. This group is indeed fortunate in having such a class. To list all the activities would be an almost impossible task so we will just touch a few of the high spots and leave it to your good nature to pardon us if we have slighted any of them. We have not the space to list names, but pictures of the sophomores are all through the book.

The class of '34 had four lettermen in football, one in basketball, and has several prospectives in track. Four of us were steady workers on the "Sivasher" and all of sixteen sophomores helped to write the "Student". We had three men in varsity debate and one on girls' debate. That, in brief, is our record of achievement.

Of course, some of us were good for nothing at all, but we were at least artistic loafers.

One can readily see by looking through the various activities that the sophomores are a truly representative group and if they continue to progress in the future as they have in the past, great things should be accomplished by the class of '34.

The Freshman Class

ssss SiS Boom! The Freshman class is here. We are not sophisticated as the upperclassmen are said to be, of course they tried to make us so.

The result was that we crashed out of chapel in front of them—we wanted to see what the Sophomore Commission would do, so we rebelled.

In football we held the varsity to a tie, 0-0. Our season was a success because of the untiring efforts of our president, Don Lemon and another all round good fellow, Ed Mendius. The girls, by the constant nagging of the upperclassmen, enrolled, participated, and became victors in athletics. One of our most gifted athletes, a member of W. A. A. is Mary Elizabeth Stewart, a descendant of Bloody Queen Mary.

Bob Gamble with his Walter Winchell ability showed that he was not only a scholar but a true debater.

"Our dramatic ability is yet to be developed", says Skeets Watts, (an actor to be). "Give us a chance and we'll show 'em."

In speaking of literary ability we must not forget Don Larson and Gene Merdian, outstanding men on the Student staff. Perhaps Gene Merdian will become a "Chic" Sales the second—who knows?

A number of freshman girls have recently been elected to L. M. I.

One of our classmates turned Japanese for a night, having one of the main parts in the "Mikado"—who? Why Everett Hendricks.

"Gil" Brunke, vice-president says, "Lincoln failed innumerable times before he succeeded." We of the class of '35 have hopes.

The prime purpose of the small college is to teach men and women to live
to the full in a living and interesting world.

Conservatory Juniors

RUTH BARLOW

Ruth is one person who can put her musical training into more than one use. Have you ever heard her sing 'Blues' songs? Sophie Tucker might as well give up the ship and enlist in the Chinese Red Cross.

KATHERINE LINDSAY

Kate dances through life at college just as gaily as her fingers dance over piano keys. If you hear a laugh and see a nymph go by, it's Kate.

DORIS MILES

Everyone in the Conservatory knows and likes Doris' ready smile. She came over from Galesburg High School, where they turn out musicians in job lots.

ISABELLE TERRILL

This charming young woman is just versatile enough to get her picture into two Junior sections. But she's that way.

Conservatory Underclassmen

This year we are very fortunate in having such good talent and unusual ability in the conservatory. Some have talent for only one course of study while others have it for more than one. Public recitals have been very interesting this year with at least half of the program given by the underclassmen. These are the people who are going to give very fine graduating recitals in the future with ease and grace received from the experience of these recitals. Voice seems to be the most popular with fourteen taking it, namely: Marguerite Miller, Romona Dunn, Evanne James, Elizabeth Swanson, Martha Simmons, Eleanor West, Reese Elliott, Darline Retherford, Gordon Voorhees, Everett Hendricks, Edward Coe, Helen DuMars, Gereld Bonnett and Albert Hoffland. Piano comes next with thirteen; Maxine Jackson, Kathryn Lindstrum, Mabel Anderson, Miriam Pearson, Helen DuMars, Eleanor West, Martha Simmons, Helen Staner, Romona Dunn, Marguerite Miller, Evanne James, Gereld Bonnett, Edward Coe, Darline Retherford, and Albert Hoffland. Organ and violin follow up with Maxine Jackson, Mabel Anderson and Miriam Pearson in organ and Helen Crawford, Reese Elliot, Helen Staner and Albert Hofflund in violin. We also have public school music students, who someday expect to teach in our grade and high schools. They are Marguerite Miller, Romona Dunn, Kathryn Lindstrum, Elizabeth Swanson, Martha Simmons, Eleanor West, Darline Retherford, Gordon Voorhees, and Helen Crawford. These people are not only just studying piano or any one instrument alone, but are taking theory courses, too. They are to learn the construction and harmony of the music they are learning. They analyze chords, write melodies, harmony and set words to music which is very useful and helpful. The conservatory is popular with college students who wish to continue their music but do not want to major in it. Voice seems to be the most popular with them with piano following in second place.

Beta Beta Beta

Honorary Biological Fraternity

Beta Beta Beta is a National Honorary Biological fraternity—open only to those students majoring in Biological sciences. Membership is based primarily on scholarship achievement. The purpose of the organization is to promote interest in this department of learning and in furthering the objectives of the science. It emphasizes, therefore, a three-fold program: sound scholarship, dissemination of scientific knowledge, and promptness of biological research.

Beta Beta Beta was founded in December, 1922, at Oklahoma City University, Oklahoma City. There are seven charter members, one of whom is Mrs. C. L. Furrow, wife of Professor Furrow of the Biology staff at Knox. The organization was nationalized in 1925, at that time there were four chapters. At the present time there are 27 chapters in the United States and 3 in China. The National Organization sponsors a journal called "Bios" appearing as a quarterly magazine which is a voice of the local chapters and a co-ordinating instrument for the National Organization.

Omega Chapter of Beta Beta Beta was formally installed at Knox College by Mrs. C. L. Furrow on December 12, 1929.

Sigma Delta Psi

Honorary Athletic Fraternity

Sigma Delta Psi is an Honorary Athletic Fraternity founded at Indiana University in 1912. The purpose of this organization is to encourage physical development and training among college students. Admission to the fraternity is gained by passing tests in each of the four major sports while maintaining at the same time a high standard of scholarship.

The Knox chapter was founded in 1920. At this time there are no active student members. A number have passed the tests required for entrance, but are engaged in competition for a trophy awarded by the fraternity to that man making the best score in the tests of admission.

The Honnold Fellowship

Miss Mary McEldowney, editor of the 1932 "GALE" was awarded this year's Honnold Fellowship.

The Honnold Fellowship was established last year by William L. Honnold, prominent mining engineer and Knox graduate. It consists of a fund of fifteen hundred dollars to cover the expenses of a year of graduate study in this country or abroad.

Miss McEldowney has had a scholastic record of 1.1229, and has been quite prominent in all campus activities.

Ernest Sandeen received this award last year, and is now studying at Oxford University, England.

The University of Illinois Scholarship

Miss Doris Shearer received the Knox faculty scholarship at the University of Illinois this year. She will study there for her master's degree in psychology.

Miss Shearer was one of the most outstanding members of this year's senior class. She has maintained a scholastic index of 1000, and has engaged in all forms of journalistic work, having been editor of the Student 1931-32 in addition to her many other activities.

The University of Illinois scholarship for graduate study is awarded each year to an outstanding student of the senior class. John Schumaker received it last year.

The Student Council

The first Student Council of Knox College came into existence in January of 1910, after a suggestion made by Dr. Raub. The plan was announced shortly after the Christmas recess and classes immediately elected their representatives.

The main purpose of the council was to serve as a means of inter-communication between the faculty and students on matters which concerned the welfare of the student body and institution itself. Conferences were called whenever the occasion demanded.

Ten members constituted the first council; four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman.

Even though until 1915 this body was more honorary than legislative its organization was a step in the direction of student self-government.

In 1916 distinct changes were made. It drew up a constitution which was ratified by both the faculty and student body. It also promoted college parties. One of the main projects of the council has been the working out of a point system for outside activities, and also the formulating of an honor system.

Reports stated that the council devoted its entire time to projects of importance to the college only at that time, such as the usual entertainment of a college.

Ten years later a distinct change was made in the body. Each body elected two members who held office until they were graduated or left school.

Since 1927 the Student Council has become a very active body. At that time it appointed a social chairman who served as the general chairman of all college affairs. It also put all elections under its supervision. Regulations were also made concerning the student publications. By means of the student activity fee, the council subsidizes all publications and debates, as well as the forensic activities of the students.

In 1929 still another means of electing representatives was established, which is still in use. Twenty members are chosen by proportional representation, each serving for only one year, unless re-elected. Under this plan, candidates must first be nominated by petition. Only when a person has a given number of endorsements to his petition is he eligible to office. Each individual voter indicates first, second, third, etc., choices on his ballot.

The main project of the council this year has been the electoral college plan to assist in the abolition of campus politics. It provides that the upper classes shall each elect by preferential system an electoral college of seven members who are outstanding in their respective classes. These, in turn, meet and vote for officers in open ballot. The plan has worked very successfully and elections have been very free from all traces of political combines.

The Student Council has had a very successful year, 1931-32. It has done a great deal to make the year an enjoyable one from all standpoints. The officers for this year are: president, Walt Lewis; vice-president, Mary Alice Gibson; secretary, Mary Alice Rolfe; treasurer, Robert Gustafson.

W. S. G. A.

The Women's Self-Government Association, the judicial organization on the Knox campus for the disciplinary control of Knox women, vests its governing power in a board composed of twelve women chosen by the proportionate representation plan. This board has jurisdiction over all women in college whether they live in the Hall or not, by means of the rules and regulations passed for the benefit of the well-being of the women. It has charge of all discipline cases involving the breaking of any of these rules.

During this year the W. S. G. A. has sponsored the usual get-to-gether parties at the beginning of the year. In addition it has promoted the monthly faculty teas, also a silver tea was given for the Frances McGaan Relief Fund.

The W. S. G. A. again opened the formal season with a splendid Christmas Prom. Members of the Prom committee this year, who aided the chairman, Jean Willis, were Janet Orwig, Eleanor Richmond, and Grace Smyth.

The officers who served this year are: Virginia Hoffman, president; Mary Alice Rolfe, vice-president; Edith Prescott, secretary; Dorothy Thomson, treasurer; Louise Larson, marshal. Others on the board are Erma Coffman, Mary DeCoster, Katherine Fleming, Alice Switzer, Jane Gray, and Jane Francia.

Y. W. C. A.

A division of the national Y. W. C. A. has been on the Knox campus for forty-eight years. During these years it has been the endeavor of the organization to help the girls to develop a more friendly spirit and to live a more worthwhile life.

These aims have been carried out the past year with the guidance of Lola Bowman. The work was again organized in committees. There were several additional and very active committees. The campus problems group discussed problems on our campus and how they might be remedied. The vocation group had visiting speakers to discuss different vocations and fields open to women. The social service group has worked in conjunction with the visiting nurse. The financial committee sponsored a sale of Japanese articles to raise money for the Y. W. C. A. The Big Sister-Little Sister movement was again carried out. This year the Y. W. C. A. tried to extend their work of welcoming the new girls by having a series of spreads the first week of school.

The members of the cabinet who carried on the work of the Y. W. C. A. the past year are: president, Lola Bowman; vice-president, Mary Alice Gibson, secretary, Jo Hecker; treasurer, Irma Coffman; program chairman, Isabelle Terrill; world fellowship chairman, Helen Ortman; campus problems chairman, Doris Shearer; publicity chairman, Margaret Post; finance chairman, Mary DeCoster; religious chairman, Nancy McLellan; social service chairman, Helen Surey, first semester, Eleanor Richmond, second semester; social chairman, Grace Smyth; vocational chairman, Alice Anderson.

Freshman Commission

The members of the Freshman Commission are chosen each year at the end of the first semester, on the basis of scholarship, democracy, leadership, and future promise. Those chosen last semester are Florence Curtin, Eva McMaster, Elma Nash, Anna Campbell, Virginia Hecker, Margaret Pennington, Elizabeth Clark, and Mary Stewart. Shortly after their election, the commission met to choose officers. Florence Curtin was elected president; Eva McMaster, vice-president; Margaret Pennington, secretary; and Mary Stewart, treasurer.

At a dinner given at the DeCoster home, February 24, in honor of the Freshman Commission, the members of the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet set forth graphically their ideas on "Smoking As It Is Done by the Modern Upper-classman." The freshmen enjoyed the dinner thoroughly.

It's strange that Ohio girls don't care to become sales-girls. The candy selling campaign was also hard on Jinny Hecker. During Lent, while Jinny wasn't eating candy, the center of the candy business was in her room. Her will power stood the test, and she yielded not. However, she refused to keep the candy any longer, and it had to be moved to the second floor. We hope that Eva McMaster won't gain too much weight as a result.

To Florence Curtin was delegated the job of getting concessions for our various selling exploits. Florence must have a way with the faculty, for all but one member gave their consent. Selling GALES proved to be quite an undertaking. It was necessary to sell forty before we saw any returns. After much coaxing and persuading we managed to make a little spending money for the Geneva delegates. Florence Curtin is the delegate who will attend the conference to be held.

Sophomore Commission

Fifteen little freshmen were surprised one day by being made commission members. They took their duties not too seriously, but managed to function with a fair degree of success. They sold candy, managed the ticket sale for the Play Tournament and in general carried on in much the same manner as all other commissions have done. These same freshmen returned to Knox in September, 1931, to find themselves full-fledged sophomores and members of the sophomore commission. The sophomore commission undertook to lead freshmen discussion groups and thereby arouse the freshmen's interest in old Siwash. The commission has also contributed several of its members to the Y. W. C. A. cabinet. Commission days are almost over and to the following officers we give credit for leading us in a happy and somewhat successful adventure: president, Eleanor Richmond; vice-president, Jeanne Murray; secretary-treasurer, Jane Francia. The other members are: Jean Barber, Frances Hazen, Rose Eleanor Brittain, Virginia Price, Edna Rottenberg, Lois Short, Margaret Rossi, Helen Parkins, Louise Marie Nelson, Jane Gray and Willadell Allen.

Seymour Hall Council

The Seymour Hall Council, made up of six freshman residents of the hall, was organized ten years ago for the purpose of regulating all affairs in the men's dormitory that do not come under the direct jurisdiction of the faculty. It makes and enforces certain regulations pertaining to the conduct of the men living in the Hall and determines the type of punishment for violation of these regulations.

The council also has charge of decorating the Hall at Homecoming and for other college events.

This year's members were: Robert Dewey, Edward Elles, Jack Loomis, Edward Mendijs, Donald Murphy, and Raymond Ochsner.

Whiting Hall Council

Some time in the not too dark past, House Council was founded. As nearly as we have been able to ascertain, its primary objective is to serve as the Whiting Hall police department. According to the Green Book, House Council co-operates with W. S. G. A. and the dean of women in their effort to keep all Knox girls on the path of peace. This year the House Council activities have been concentrated on making a bigger and better social life for Hall inmates. Several formal dinners such as the Christmas and St. Patrick Day dinners, have been sponsored. Two "open house" days were successfully managed by the council. One of these days, was the usual Homecoming event while the other was held Founders' Day. The council endeared itself to the hearts of feminine smokers when it purchased ash-trays for the newly inaugurated smoking-room in Whiting Hall. House Council functions were under the direction of President Natalie Diemer, Secretary Freda Ellerbrake, Treasurers Fassett and Wolfenbarger, while the following members offered noble assistance: Ruth Merdian, Eloise Topping, Irma Brodman, Fern Roberts, Virginia Dawson, Grace Nelson, Mary Palmer, Willadell Allen.

Le Cercle Francais

The French Club this year has attained in large extent its goal of promoting a better understanding of spoken French outside of the classroom. The meetings were held the third Wednesday of each month and were in most cases in the form of dinner meetings held at Seymour Hall. A bridge party, with bridge and the accompanying conversation done in French, was given first semester; it proved so popular that another was given during the second semester. The number of members attending the dinner meetings usually exceeded sixty.

For the most part, the varied programs were presented by the members themselves. At one meeting a play was presented; at another, Mr. Muelder of the history department spoke concerning the significance of Premier Laval's visit to the United States; at another time Professor Smith interested his listeners with his talk on Paris. One meeting was in the form of a luncheon held on Saturday, so that twenty-five members of the Bradley French Club might attend to hear Professor Kurz speak.

Undoubtedly the most ambitious enterprise undertaken by the club this year was its sponsorship of a French Talkie—"La Grande Mare", with Maurice Chevalier. Mr. McSpadden kindly donated the use of the West Theatre for its presentation. The large audience profited both in amusement and real instruction. An added attraction was Professor Smith's performance at the theatre organ.

Those who have held office for the past year are: president, Inez McLaughlin; vice-president, Emma-Lou Fisher; secretary, Ralph McWilliams; treasurer, Alice Anderson; program chairman, Helen Ortman; faculty advisor, Professor Elbert Smith.

El Circulo Espanol

To create in the members of the club an ability to speak everyday Spanish fluently has been the aim of "El Circulo Espanol". By means of monthly meetings alternately, dinner and no-eat meetings held at Seymour Hall and Whiting Hall, respectively, on the first Thursday of every month, the members seek to gain more from the study of the Spanish language than just the classroom atmosphere affords.

The programs are planned to include Spanish games, music, stories, and lectures by students and professors. During the year specially arranged plays have been put on in Spanish by the students. Mr. and Mrs. Sespluges have favored the club with talks at various times. Also Tommy Willard, a much-traveled freshman, has contributed much to the tone of the meetings.

During this year a formal constitution was drawn, stating the purpose of the club, activities, etc. Before this year there had been no such document.

Membership in the club is open to any student in Knox College who, having some knowledge of Spanish, would like to learn more.

The officers who have been responsible during the past year for the success of the club were. William Jencks, president; vice-president and program chairman, Marian Wetmore; secretary, Mary Francia; and treasurer, Frances Bohle. The very able faculty advisor was Miss Gladys Calbick.

Der Deutsche Verein

Der Deutsche Verein was organized to give the German student an opportunity of more intimate contact with German culture as represented by plays, songs, literary activities and other means. The membership is open to all students having completed one semester of German with a fairly good grade, and associate membership to all students of German.

The roll call now numbers fifty-four students.

The group met eight times this year, with varied programs, all conducted in German. The programs included, after the dinner meetings, two plays entirely in German, "Wie man Wecht in Amerika" and Der Kleine Deowandten, an evening devoted to the works of great German musical composers, talks by several professors on life in Germany, a moving picture depicting a trip down the lower Rhine, a program commemorating the German poet Goethe, and a program by the freshmen students of German. The Christmas party was the special feature of the year, however. A typical German Xmas dinner was served, after which Santa Claus, represented by Jerome Burtle, gave out the individual gifts. Then a very interesting talk was given by Dean Poor, on "German Christmas Customs".

At the final meeting of the year, new officers were elected. These include: Verna Larsen, president; Agnes Ellerbrake, vice-president; Howard Barnes, secretary; and Kenneth Peterson, treasurer.

L. M. I.

The Ladies' Mutual Improvement Society, oldest literary organization on the campus, had a very successful year. A new type of program was instigated. Outside speakers were obtained, talks being given on book-binding, etching, china collecting, interior decorating, photography, the MacDowell artist colony, Marcus Aurelius, and rare books. L. M. I. won the first prize in the organization division of the Homecoming parade with a presentation of Eugene Field's "Little Boy Blue". Out of the many girls who tried out by submitting an original literary effort, twenty-nine were chosen as members. The prize of five dollars given by Mrs. Post to the member of L. M. I. who writes the best piece of literature during the year was won last year by Mary McEldowney and Sara Davison. Grace Wargo won the prize given by Mrs. Arnold for the best scrap-book containing articles of the owner which have appeared in the three Knox publications. Officers for the year were: president, Mary McEldowney; vice-president, Mildred Hofflund; recording secretary, Lee Riggs; corresponding secretary, Dolores Yahn; treasurer, Inez McLaughlin; librarian, Edith Smith; program chairman, Margaret Post; publicity chairman, Natalie Diemer; social chairman, Grace Castle; Siwash editor, Helen Surey.

Men's Debate

Four no-decision open forum debates were held this year—two with the University of Illinois and two with the Northwestern University. The Trades and Labor Assembly, the Betas and the Phi Gams played roles as hosts. One debate was held at LaSalle. The question discussed this year was that of compulsory nation-wide control of production and distribution in the major basic industries.

Women's Debate

Feeling the loss of their annual subsidy from the college the Knox women's debate team managed to carry on a brief but successful season. The willingness of Iowa University to co-operate with Knox through this period of misfortune sent a women's affirmative team to this campus to discuss with the opposing Knox team the question of India's immediate independence. The Knox affirmative team had the opportunity to meet an Iowa negative team before a business men's club at Davenport, Iowa.

Christmas Prom

Icicles, icebergs, and Polar bears were used to transform the Armory into an ice cave and create an appropriate festive atmosphere for the W. S. G. A. Christmas Prom which ushers in the Knox formal season each year. From an ice grotto, Cliff Perrine and his orchestra furnished dance music and special entertainment skits for the three hundred guests. President and Mrs. Britt, Dean and Mrs. Poor, and Mrs. Glidden were chaperones for the event.

Junior Prom

More important than a swimming meet was this annual promenade sponsored by the Junior class each spring. On March 15, ninety couples danced at the Roof Garden to the music furnished by Frenchie Graffoulier and His New Yorkers. Fraternity and sorority pennants hung about the orchestra pit and the booth from which punch was served gave the hall a collegiate atmosphere. This is the last all-college formal each season.

The Players' Club

The Knox Players' Club, composed of student actors, technicians, stage hands and business men, underwent a complete change of organization in the year 1931-32.

Membership in this organization has formerly been through tryouts held at the beginning of the school year. Under the new plan of eligibility, students actors automatically become candidates for membership when they have taken two major or three minor parts in a production of the Little Theatre. Candidates from backstage or the business office are eligible after active participation in three performances. The new plan has helped to make the club a full organization of active, interested persons, willing to work in the theatre at all times. This system has also made active public performance, rather than studied preparation, a prerequisite of membership.

Since the founding of Players' Club, the annual formal dinner, usually held at one of the downtown clubs, has been an event much enjoyed. This year, through a succession of unavoidable delays, the dinner was not held. It is hoped by all the members that the practice will be resumed next year.

Naturally enough, a writeup of a theatre group must include a summary of its presentations during the year. Club members and initiates, under the diligent supervision of Paul A. Foley, dramatic coach, took leading roles in all the year's productions up to the senior play. Reviews of the year's plays are given in the ensuing section of this book and the reader may see for himself from them the part taken by the Players' Club in theatre work.

History of the Knox Theatre

With the growth of the little theatre movement, the colleges of America have organized their own theatres, and carried out production programs comparable to those of the best theatres in the whole country.

In keeping with this movement, Mr. C. L. Menser, who came here in 1921, organized dramatics at Knox into the Knox Theatre as it is today. He immediately began the foundation of a wider interest in drama by the introduction of a course in "dramatic art". This radical change in the college curriculum was a laboratory course for the study and presentation of plays. The interest and effort it aroused have led to the development of an institution of good dramatic production for the community as well as a limited group of the college body.

After working for several years in tiny Chamberlain Hall, and in the cavernous Plaza Theatre, Mr. Menser at last was given a chance to develop a theatre on college property. The completion of the new Henry M. Seymour Library left vacant the space in Alumni Hall formerly used as a library, in what had once been the old college chapel. It was a difficult job, but his efforts resulted in a very comfortable, well-equipped theatre, suitable for the production of all types of plays.

The work of the Knox Theatre has been greatly aided by the splendid co-operation of faculty and students. President Britt has helped appreciably by his active interest in the work, as well as by his advice and counsel. The English department, the Conservatory of Music, the library and the Science department have all worked with it to great advantage.

Under the present organization, the director of the theatre is directly responsible for everything connected with the theatre. He selects the plays to be done, casts them, and appoints the technical workers in the production. Everybody in school—freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors—is eligible to tryout for parts in all plays except the senior play.

This year the Knox Theatre has presented an unusually well-balanced program. The first production of the year was the Homecoming play "Old Heidelberg", a romance by Wilhelm Meyerförster. An entirely different type of play "Turn About", equally well represented as the second offering of the season. This production was a comedy of the modern home in a small town and was well adapted to the work of student artists.

"Liliom", a fantastic fable written by Molnar and one of the first big successes of the New York Theatre Guild, was sponsored by Theta Alpha Phi on January 15. The setting and theme of this manuscript is unusual even for a modern drama, following none of the general routine methods of play-writing.

A comedy-drama of Kentucky mountain life was the theme of "Sun Up", by Lulu Vollmer, which was presented on March 11. While primarily a comedy, the piece has serious moments and gives chances for expert characterizations.

An innovation this year was the presentation of "The Mikado", a light opera by Gilbert and Sullivan.

The play chosen for the senior class play this year was "The Royal Family", by George Kaufman and Edna Ferber. It is a comedy dealing with the lives of a famous family of actors and is full of clever lines.

To see "Old Heidelberg" again is to catch an echo of one's youth. It is at least twenty-five years since I saw Richard Mansfield as Prince Karl and my recollection is more of the actor than of the play, particularly of the reckless, gay youth that romped through the opening scenes.

By the standards of today I fear the play is somewhat naïve and unsophisticated, at least to the extent that its sentiment was free and unconscious. Perhaps it is a tribute to Mansfield's great art that he could so thoroughly carry us with him into the spirit of the closing scenes so fully to believe that a Prince could find such poignant tragedy in the fact that to a pretty serving maid he had become "Your Highness" and could never again be the reckless youth that she had known when all life seemed young and reckless.

“Turn About” is representative of a long line of plays such as “The Show-Off” and “Tommy”, which are strictly American in type and nature. They abandon the tea-cups of the city for the supper dishes of the small town. “Turn About” is a comedy which might take place in Galesburg, or your own home town, quite as well as in Milldale. The characters of the play are like your neighbors—perhaps not the neighbors next door, but surely like somebody in the next block down the street. As you watch the play, you discover more and more resemblances to people you know, or to people you used to know, you see them doing things your neighbors used to do, or better still, things you always hoped they would do, and you enjoy the play as a simple, sincere picture of life as most of us know it best.

The play "Liliom" (meaning lily, i. e., "a tough") by the Hungarian dramatist Ferenc Molnar was produced in 1909, but gained no recognition until 1918, and in America, April 20, 1921 on the occasion of its production by the Theater Guild. Even in its form the play departs from fixed tradition in its chronicle-like sequence of scenes, and by the introduction of supernatural and symbolic material.

The social world of Liliom and Mrs. Muskat, of Julie and Marie, is that of domestic service on its half-holiday. It is a world of conventional but elemental pleasures, seeing but darkly beyond its limits, and comprehending vaguely its relations to a wider universe beyond: it is a world of primitive habit midst which the good and the bad attain equal unsuccess. Mrs. Muskat and Mrs. Hollunder face the world with endowments of opposite moral force: Marie draws a blank in the lottery of fate in spite of her commonplace success with Wolf Beifeld; the characters of the play are not in themselves colorless; there is simply no self-consciousness in the mordant that fixes their shades of character.

The modern predilection for anatomy requires us to study life as near the cell and its instincts as possible. Hence, in Liliom we see the dull witted outcast moved by instinct to what is natural whether right or wrong. The mutual attraction of Liliom and Julie momentarily animates him with sentient life too surging and emotion too tender for his feeble powers. Though Liliom's way of life lacks vocation, lacks even a destiny worthy of humanity, he is really the medium of the idea that the wrong we do is a defense against inner misery and agony of soul, if soul there be. The whole world itself would be too small to contain the wrongs committed if they were not absorbed by love into the cosmic process. Julie is the pitiful but glorious integration by which love accomplishes its equally unconscious function.

Mountaineers have always presented a peculiar problem. Living in isolated regions, cut off from free contact with the outside world by the barriers of nature, and even more by the barriers of individualism and pride, they might be said to represent a civilization within a civilization. Accustomed from generations to be a rule unto themselves, they are jealous of personal liberty; prejudiced against outside interference, generally exemplified in their minds by Law and Education; and suspicious of “foreigners” and foreign ideas. Personal honor is sacredly guarded; feuds abound; superstition, poverty, and ignorance chain them to the past and prevent social progress.

Such was the general ethno-geographical background of which the Cagle and Todd families, in the mountains of North Carolina, are typical products.

However, the times are changing. The long artery of so-called modern civilization is sending its stream further and further into the mountain fastness. The organized forces of law and education enter. Young Rufe Cagle is one of the first to buck the accepted code of ethics. He refuses to traffic in corn whiskey; he cannot kill in cold blood the murderer of his father; he places patriotism above clan loyalty and goes out to meet death on the fields of France.

The unseen forces are also having their effect on Widow Cagle. In the firm conviction that her own attitude was right, yet believing in her son's sincerity, with stoical fortitude she had watched him depart. Nevertheless the leaven was at work. When, by the irony of fate, she discovers that she has been harboring the son of her husband's murderer, the instinct of revenge yields to the nobler impulse. As in a vision, she hears the voice of her dead son saying that hate breeds war; that mother-love is the same everywhere. The feud instinct gives place to social consciousness; hate to love. The sun has risen in her soul, prophetic of the dawn of a new day for mountaineers.

The 1933 Gale

We hope that you like the idea behind the 1933 GALE. Knox alumni are all over this earth, as ministers, doctors, teachers and business men. They have done much for the name and fame of this college; hence, the dedication of the book.

Editor Bogue

And now, let's look at the band of industrious individuals who helped to put this book out. First of all, there is that group of men who did the commercial work on the book; Henry Lass of Wagoner's heads the list, always full of information and valuable suggestions. It is much to be doubted if Knox could get out a year book without his advice and assistance. Bill Dobbs, the service man from Minneapolis, is another who did much. Few persons on the campus know Bill, but it was he who arranged for the designs of the division pages and opening section. In technical language he "serviced" the book. Then, there are Mr. Harrison and Mr. Clay—photographers par excellence—who took your pictures, mounted them and fixed you all up.

Let's look at the staff, the eager body of students who have worked hard to get the book out on time. First, there are the two associate editors, Virginia

Gamble, Meyercord, Arnold, Montgomery, Rowe, R. Miller
Beckman, McMaster, Terrill, Hult, Stewart, Lawyer, Pennington
Murray, Diemer, McClennahan, Hendricks, Parkins, Hecker

Hinchliff and Isabelle Terrill, both experienced workers whose little contributions are scattered all through the book. The assistant editors come next: Joe Morgan, Jeanne Murray, Rose Eleanor Brittain and Willadell Allen. Willadell took the book over when the editor got sick and she did a fine job of editing all by herself. Ruth Lawyer handled all the snaps. Judge them for yourself. Janet Orwig did the Women's Athletics. The other departments, their editors and workers are: Sports, Comer Crandell, Herb McClennahan; Features, Joe Strasburger, Bob Gamble; Conservatory, Maxine Hult, Maxine Jackson; Typing, Edna Rottenberg; R. O. T. C., Gordon Davis, Russel Johnson.

Others wrote feature articles or attended to pictures. Among these are Margaret Beckman, Vaylor Logan, Helen Ortman, Margaret Post, Grace Wargo, Dorothy McCoy, and Hugh Jencks. Ruth Bjorkman and Louise West did the theatre history.

It requires money to publish a book and the GALE had a good business staff—Frank Potter, Helen Parkins, Dale Rowe, Cuth Hall, Bob Miller, John Montgomery, and Ed Meyercord. The Freshman Commission helped by selling the GALES. With that gang of sharpshooters, we financed the book very well.

One or two final acknowledgements. The division pages were done by the artists of the Bureau from sketches of the following Japanese artists, in respective order: Gakutei, Hiroshigi, Zincaid, an American student, and Yeishi.

The Knox Student

More good stories in the Student this year is the accomplishment of Editor Doris Shearer. The business manager, Wilfred Woollett, and his assistant, Harry Miller, as well as assistant editor, Hugh Jencks, and the staffs, have done admirable work in the production of this publication, which has been issued every Wednesday afternoon of this year.

Four special issues were features of the year. They came out at Homecoming, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Founders' Day. Each was of more than the usual good calibre, filled with feature stories in addition to the regular news. The Homecoming issue was of twelve pages, and an account of Homecoming celebrations in previous years was featured. "Why Not Knox?" the theme of this year's Homecoming was carried out in many of the stories concerning the history and value of the Knox library, publications, dramatics, and athletics. The "Turkey Day" number contained information about the traditional Knox-Monmouth football feud, held for many years on Thanksgiving Day.

The Student observed Christmas with a front page feature of the old carol "God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen". The Founders' Day edition, of twelve pages, carried stories and pictures concerning the history of Knox and its founders, back to the inception of the Knox idea in the minds of the band of pioneers who came to Galesburg from New York.

Gene Merdian edited the Freshman "April Fool" issue, Marion VanBuskirk being the manager. The main aim of the freshman editor is to fool the students and faculty alike with huge headlines and stories of Knox affairs which never have happened and probably never will.

Another of the specials this year was "Better Copy", a small paper edited particularly for distribution to the delegates to the High School Press Convention held annually at Knox.

The editorials this year have been a joy to all, and worthy of special merit. They have been, in the main, the work of Mildred Hofflund, who has succeeded in getting close to the real feelings of most of the students, on affairs of world, nation, campus, and individual. Other material on this page has been the work of Richard Barron, Natalie Diemer, Walt Lewis, and Joe Strasburger.

A "Theater Column" has been written each week,

Wilfred Woollett
Business Manager

Gamble, J. H. Johnson, Burford, B. Rundle
Rottenburg, Merdian, Rosenau, Hinchliff, Richmond
Carlton, Redfield, Altenkruse, Milgrim

to keep the students in touch with Knox stage doings. "Twenty-Five Years Ago" is another of the innovations. On the sport page there has been a newsy column which has changed its name with the seasons—"Gridiron Gab", "Hardwood Hooey", "Track Talk"—written by Joe Mann and John Smith.

Wallace Kemp and Jeanne Murray have had regular feature story assignments during the year. Rose Eleanor Br'ttain is Society Editor. Conservatory news was by Maxine Hult.

Joe Morgan was Sports Editor, with Bernard Burford and Bernard Rundle writing for him. Ruth Merdian writes women's athletics. Sara Altekruise, Janet Redfield, and Eleanor Richmond read proof and write head lines.

Other reporters not mentioned above are: Irma Brodman, Helen Carlton, Gordon Davis, Jane Francia, Walter Finney, James Fulton, Kathryn Gardner, Virginia Hinchliff, Russell Johnson, Winifred Krughoff, Ruth Lawyer, Herb McClennahan, Inez McLaughlin, Henrietta Memler, Louise Milgrim, Robert Miller, Janet Orwig, Charles Robison, Edna Rottenberg, Lois Short, Edith Smith, Ione Sundberg, Betty Test, Grace Wargo, Mary Zeldes.

The business staff includes: Stuart Hawkinson, Edward Hieronymus, Hamilton Johnson, Kenneth Peterson, Frank Potter, Paul Rosenau.

The first copy of the Knox Student was put into the hands of the student body on Commencement Day, June 14, 1894. If the standard of work set this year is continued, the present generation may never see the last copy.

The Siwasher

In a smart gray cover embellished with a purple and gold Knox seal, a new Siwasher made its appearance on the campus last October. With Kerns, editor, and Russell Bergstrom, business manager, aided by suggestions from the Board of Publications, changed the whole character of the magazine so that the eleventh year of the Siwasher was in truth the first year of a new publication on the campus.

It is no longer a humorous publication. There is not one joke to be found in any of this year's six issues. The editor and his staff, composed of Mary McEldowney, Mildred Hofflund, Grace Wargo, Bill Beattie, Dick Barron, and Joe Strasburger, Jr., have made the magazine a literary one. The staff members furnished the bulk of the material published during the year. Some of the high spots, however, were efforts of contributors outside the staff. Ernest Sandeen sent a story on "Guy Fawkes Night at Oxford" from England. Harry Kurz contributed a set of personality sketches of people he knew at the MacDowell Colony. John Mergener published a play, "The Scientist". Rufe, who was successful in concealing his identity from the editor, came through with a sparkling article called "B. A. Begin Again". Gail Mathers wrote a story called "Scotty" and Robert Gamble's name appeared twice on the table of contents, once with a translation of a poem of Ronsard, and again as the writer of a story, "Two Men and a Song". Lois Halladay reviewed the productions of the Knox Theater. Some of the outstanding verse was contributed by Nels Nordstrom, Edith Ann Prescott, Peggy Hall, Grace Wargo, Mary McEldowney and Marian Wittenburger.

With each issue of the Siwasher was a full page campus scene printed by the linoleum cut process, the original work of the editor and one of his assistants. The scenes represented were Old Main, Alumni Hall, the Henry M. Seymour Library, Beecher Chapel and Whiting Hall, and the Observatory, all views taken from the rear of the buildings. Linoleum cut illustrations appeared with stories, verses, and articles in the magazine. Joe Strasburger's three sketches of the Knox triumvirate, Hurd, Comstock, and Churchill, were accompanied by linoleum cuts of the men.

Several members of the faculty have aided in making the Siwasher truly representatives of Knox literary talent, and Prof. W. T. Beauchamp, as official advisor to the editor, was especially generous with his time. Alice Anderson served as assistant editor, and Richard Rose managed circulation. Those who helped to sell advertisements during the year were: Cuthbert Hall, Glenn Baker, Helen Parkins, Dale Rowe, Jerry Smithwick, and Jack Webster.

The "Siwasher" has attracted a great deal of attention this year. Some people on the campus thought that the change this year was a change for the worse. It has been argued quite frequently that the nearly complete absence of humor has hurt the magazine, and that the student body wants this magazine to be a joke book.

Others say that the change from humor to literature was the best thing for the book, and that it will have a great future. Those who argue along this line believe that every college should have a publication of this type, to afford a presentation of the literary ability that the students may show.

There is much to be said on both sides of the question. It is neither the function nor the duty of the "GALE" to decide it here. Perhaps no one can do that at this time; the controversy will probably go on as long as there is a "Siwasher".

There may be more changes next year. Joe Strasburger, the next editor, has proposed several of them, and the student body awaits the issues of next year with pleasure and a readiness to be convinced of their worth.

The Board of Publications

The Board of Publications was founded in 1931. It has several functions: it chooses the Editors and Business Mangers of the "GALE", the "Siwasher", and the "Student"; it selects the Editorial Staff of the Student on the ability which its members show in try-outs. Among the most significant moves that the Board has made was that of changing the Siwasher from the humorous publication of preceding years to the purely literary one of 1931-32.

The Board is composed of five faculty and four student members.

The Knox R. O. T. C.

The drum-major twirls his magic baton; the music starts and the squads swing smartly into line. The adjutant, in his highly polished boots, bright spurs, and smart uniform, aligns the rigid cadets as another parade is formed. How that line has steadily grown in the past few years! There is esprit de corps in the battalion, for as the General Henry Knox Guard, Company B, passes on review with its gold fringed silk banner, and purple and gold citation cords, grim determination to excell appears among the other companies.

All the Knox R. O. T. C. companies compete for the honor of being designated as the Henry Knox Guard. The companies are judged on a three group merit system; drill efficiency, neatness, and general morale such as their company dinner attendance, etc.

Again the Knox R. O. T. C. answered the call of need, by forming this year a strictly volunteer military band which furnished music at the athletic functions, parades, and other collegiate occasions. The band was entirely under student directing. James Conine, director; Robert Speer, drum major; William Jencks, first lieutenant, have repeatedly demonstrated their excellent leadership. The band accompanied the Knox football team to Augustana and Coe this year, and it expects to make more trips next year.

The band is not only a musical organization, but its musicians are the cadets of this year's newly formed Headquarters company. Headquarters company drills half the time as a rifle unit, and the other half as a band. It also takes an active part in all company competitions.

On November 5, a dinner was given at Lyman Kay Seymour Hall, by the Knox unit, in honor of Captain Raymond Williamson, who was leaving Knox to go to the Plattsburg Barracks, New York, and Major Leigh Bell, who had just arrived to assume the command of the Knox R. O. T. C.

The Knox unit celebrated Sponsor's Day on November 16, at which time a Tea Dance and Reception in honor of the newly chosen sponsors was held. In the afternoon review, the sponsors had been officially received by President Albert Britt. The sponsors chosen were: Mary DeCoster, battalion; Mary Gibson, A company; Jean Tuggle, B company; Doris Shearer, C company; Virginia Bull, D company; Harriett Davidson, Headquarters company.

The local chapter of Scabbard and Blade has been active. Delegates were sent from the local chapter to the national convention which was held during April. Eight juniors were elected this year to be active members.

The scores of the rifle team again showed a continuous increase. The Betas won the Inter-organization competition with a score of 1012, which is an increase of 15 points over the winning score of the Phi Gams of last year. The varsity placed in the first division of the Sixth Corps Area match, and it was in the upper third of another. For the first time, Knox sent a rifle team to fire shoulder to shoulder matches with the University of Wisconsin, and Ripon teams. The Knox all time record was broken this year by Murray Skinner, a freshman, when he fired an individual score of 374.

The military social climax was the highly successful Military Ball, which was held at the Roof Garden on February 19.

The primary mission of the Knox military department is to produce excellent reserve officers for the United States Army; therefore, it must emphasize the fundamentals; leadership, thorough knowledge of infantry weapons, combat, principles, and marksmanship. Certainly, under the able guidance of Major Bell, Lieutenant Ennis, and Sergeant Cole, the local unit is doing this job well. Credit is also due to Captain Williamson, Knox's former commander.

The R. O. T. C. unit at its final examination of last year, the annual War Department inspection, was given by Major Max Murray, a rating of excellent, the highest possible.

Knox College Alumni

A college is known through the influence of its alumni. That influence may be manifest in the honorable and intelligent accumulation and expenditure of wealth, in the fidelity and dignity given to high positions and learned professions as well as to the art of fine living no matter how practised—ultimately the influence of a life must always be measured in the quality of service rendered. Each June the college sends out a group of men and women whose lives she has had a part in directing and influencing. No graduate can deny to his college a share in his making and no college can disclaim some responsibility for results.

For the most part the achievements of Knox Alumni, like those of other American colleges, are unwritten in public records. The only appropriate recognition of them is like that set up to the Unknown Soldier. Their service, though indispensable, has been often inconspicuous. They have given a quality to communities large and small and have builded themselves into the fabric of the general life. Especially is this true of women graduates—no matter what the college. Hundreds of Knox women are honored and followed as leaders in their own communities as teachers, social workers or business women and, most important of all, the college has fitted them to live richer lives and more adequately to train and develop the lives of children as well as to be intelligent companions of their husbands. It is of interest to know that as early as 1836 the Founders declared for “the thorough and well-directed education of females”; in 1850 the “Female Collegiate Department” was organized, and in 1870 the full college course was definitely thrown open to women. Nearly six thousand students have taken these courses and have gone out to do Knox credit in the various careers which, in increasing numbers, have been made accessible to women not only in this country but in other lands.

CHOOSING THEIR TASKS IN LIFE

No fewer than 14,500 students have received instruction at Knox. Nearly a third of the number were enrolled in the Academy, which did invaluable service until discontinued in 1910 as no longer indispensable. Another third entered the college without remaining long enough to receive a degree while another considerable group have taken their degrees in music at the Knox Conservatory. A third of the whole number, not far from four thousand, completed the academic course and gained the degree of Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science.

As they went out they turned to many duties and have gone to the ends of the earth. On June 1, 1928, a survey was made of the occupations of graduates and former students of the college living at that time. The largest single body of whom records are accessible, a total of 637, turned to business in its various phases; the next largest contingent, 620 in number, 415 of them women, chose education for their work; 208 elected farming, 177, all of them men, chose law; 149 entered the field of banking; 160, all but ten being men, followed the practice of medicine in some form; 111, of whom 87 were women, preferred music; 166 became journalists, editors, writers, illustrators, publishers, or printers; the ministry drew 71; 59 entered government service or the army; and there were nearly six hundred who pursued chemistry, electricity, metallurgy, pharmacy, social service, and other specialized occupations. Today these helpful citizens follow their callings in all parts of the world, in every state of the Union as well as in countries remote and strange; in Persia and Ceylon, Manchuria and Korea, Turkey, India and West Africa.

The Knox Coaches

Coach Earl Jackson is the head of the Knox athletic department. Coming to Knox from Carleton College, he soon established such an enviable record as track coach that he was placed in charge of all Siwash sports. As head football coach, Jackson's success has been almost on a par with that of his track teams which won four Little Nineteen championships and two Midwest conference titles in seven years. The Knox athletic program has thus far been carried on in a highly commendable manner under Coach Jackson's guidance.

Coach Dean Trevor, a former Knox football and basketball star, has been head basketball coach since 1926. He has also served as line coach of the football squad, and the line play of the Siwash elevens during the past few years indicates that he has done a very good job. His basketball teams have always managed to be among the contenders for both the Little Nineteen and Midwest conference titles. The Knox cagers were better than average this year and are expected to be even more consistent winners next year.

"Ole" Magnuson has coached the varsity baseball team, the freshman football team, and the freshman basketball squad since 1927. Last fall his frosh gridders showed unusual power by winning both games of their brief two game schedule. As a result of the economy wave which hit Knox athletics last winter, however, Magnuson was released from the coaching staff. Knox thereby lost not only a good coach but a real leader who is universally respected by all Siwash athletes who have at one time or another been under his wing.

The Varsity Managers

To attain and to keep the managership of any one of Knox's athletic teams is no easy job. The one who would be a manager must undergo a two years apprenticeship, learning the trade, and doing all sorts of odd jobs. When the coveted goal is at last reached, and the man becomes a team manager, his troubles are just beginning. He must not only continue his former tedious jobs, but must assume a new responsibility. Managers lead no easy life; they must have things always in tip-top shape, spick and span. Indeed, their life is not easy, but their services are invaluable; while they apparently play a minor role, their skillful work contributes in no small way to a team's morale and ultimate success.

Russell Bergstrom was football manager in 1931. He had served his two year's apprenticeship, and showed it by his thorough knowledge of his work. "Bergie" was always busy, yet always willing to stop and lend a helping hand to player or coach in trouble.

The basketball manager is supposed to have the easiest task of all of the managers of varsity teams, but Edward Sturtevant, by untiring work from early fall to late spring, made his work require as much effort as any other managership. Ed pulled the basketball team through in good shape; the fact that they were handicapped by injuries and influenza was no fault of his.

The little but mighty Cyril Allen took over the post of track manager this year. His work, the most grueling of all, lasts the year around. He must keep in condition the outdoor track and the indoor track beneath Alumni Hall. "Cy" has worked all year; the fine condition of his special cares bear witness to his industry and efficiency.

One intramural manager failed to return to school, another failed to make his grades; so the task of bossing intramural sports fell to Ralph Sloan. He had a thorough knowledge of them, having been a participant in intramural and varsity sports during all his college career. Ralph has succeeded in running off the intramural schedule at top speed this year.

The Hunter Trophy

Frank Wilson

The Hunter Trophy, awarded each year to a senior who has maintained a high standard of scholarship while winning letters in two different sports, has become a real tradition at Knox. The names engraved on it from year to year gain a certain lustre that time cannot dim. It is a permanent record of the great athletes of Knox.

Frank Robert Wilson was the winner of this award in 1931. He was a letter winner in basketball, having played as varsity guard for two years. In football, he was an outstanding lineman, playing tackle and end. He was captain of the team his senior year. Frank has been a real leader in campus athletics and has maintained a high standard of scholarship.

Season, 1931

Center

Faced with an extremely stiff schedule last fall the Knox gridders came through in a commendable manner, winning three games, losing five, and tying one. The high spot of the season was the trip to West Point where the Siwashers tried their hand at riding the famous Army mule.

Western Teachers of Macomb furnished the opposition in the opening game of the year which resulted in a 14 to 7 Knox victory.

The score was tied at seven all from early in the first quarter until the closing minutes of the final period when Burtle ran 35 yards around end to the Western four yard line, from where Vasen carried the ball over the goal on his third attempt.

A week later the plucky Knox eleven went down to defeat before the powerful Army team by a score of 67-6. Knox was simply worn down by sheer numbers, Army carrying too many guns for the Siwashers. Vasen scored the lone Knox touchdown.

A first quarter drive which netted a touchdown within the first two minutes of play enabled Knox to gain a 7 to 0 decision over State Normal of Bloomington in the next game of the year. Vasen passed to Burtle for the lone score of the game. Center place kicked the extra point.

Goff, Mendijs, Davidson, Ladd, Painter, Gold, Merdian
Whittier, Webster, Lemon, Malloy, Riel, Murphy, Foster
Clovis, Pierson, Sperry, Munro, Hendricks, Campbell, Anderson

The Siwashers lost their first Little Nineteen game to Augustana, 6 to 0. A 15 yard penalty, an intercepted pass, and a blocked kick proved to be the undoing of the Knox attack.

Local grid fans are still talking about the last quarter drive that the Siwashers used to tie Illinois College, 7 to 7, at the Homecoming celebration. On the following Saturday the Siwashers ruined the day for several hundred Beloit homecomers by defeating the Beloit eleven, 7 to 0. A double pass, Center to Wellman to Vasen brought the winning touchdown.

The purple eleven was not so successful in the next two encounters with Cornell and Coe, the former winning, 9 to 0, and the latter 7 to 0. In a renewal of the ancient rivalry between the two schools, Monmouth on Thanksgiving Day, handed Knox a 19 to 12 defeat and thereby won back the bronze Turkey that had remained in the trophy case in Seymour Hall for the past two years.

Frank Wilson and Charles Center were co-captains of the 1931 eleven and to all appearances they did a very capable job. Russell Bergstrom was the varsity manager. Dan Kemp, a letterman for the past two years, was elected captain for next fall at the close of the last season.

The Freshmen had a short but successful season, defeating both Illinois Military and the Monmouth Freshmen. They will present a large group of good men to the varsity next year.

Reid was a star at one of the tackle positions all year. He is expected to return to a regular tackle berth next year.

Wellman

CHESTER WELLMAN

Chet was probably one of the most consistent players on the Knox team during the past season. Without doubt he will again be a regular end next year.

Farnsworth was a first class quarterback who gave Center a real fight for the signal calling post. Although he didn't play often he gained experience that will be useful next year.

Siwash fans are mighty glad that Sanders has another year of varsity competition left. Phil is a very efficient guard.

Sanders

GEORGE EATON

Eaton was a tall, rangy player who was a bulwark of strength in the center of the line. He made a very favorable impression during his first season as a Siwasher.

RALPH SLOAN

Sloan, although too light for heavy duty made himself a serious contender for a halfback position by means of his fast and clever footwork. This was Ralph's fourth year of hard work without a letter.

SPENCER VASEN

Spence was Knox's outstanding triple threat man, running, kicking, and passing with equal ability. He can play any of the backfield positions with equal proficiency.

AL FREDERICK

Frederick was a capable sophomore guard. Great things are expected from him during the next two years.

JOHN LEWIS

John is just the rangy type that make such good ends. His ability to snag passes was probably his most outstanding achievement.

Lewis

CHARLES BROWN

Plenty of speed mixed in with a nice change of pace won a letter for Brown who saw considerable action at one of the halfback posts.

Brown

RALPH SHEAFE

Ralph was a plunging fullback with plenty of drive and power. Knox will remember him as the man who saved a Homecoming.

The 1931-32 Basketball Season

Although no championships were won by the 1931-32 team their success was very satisfactory with nine victories being chalked up against five defeats. One of the defeats was administered in an overtime contest, while two of the other games were dropped by one point. A total of 495 points were rolled up by the Siwashers against 418 points for her opponents, making an average of 35 points per game. Captain Strawbridge led the individual scoring with the two forwards, Wellman and Lewis, next in line.

Capt. Strawbridge

In the opening game the Alumni team was unable to stop the scoring power of Strawbridge, Wellman, and Lewis, and the varsity triumphed in easy fashion, 55 to 28.

The first Little Nineteen contest saw Knox defeat a weak Augie team 26 to 16. The game was slow and the Knoxmen lacked the scoring punch which they exhibited in the first game.

Overcoming an early lead, Knox downed Coe 36 to 28, in the first Midwest game. Strawbridge and Lewis led the scoring.

In what proved to be the best game of the year Knox lost a thrilling 32 to 31 battle to the speedy Carleton five, conquerors of Chicago and Iowa in the Big Ten. The entire Knox team played bang-up ball, with the scoring honors divided between four men.

A typical Knox-Monmouth battle, in which 27 personal fouls were called, resulted in a Monmouth victory, 34 to 33. Lewis was high-point man with three field goals and five free throws.

Coach Trevor, Mendijs, West, Dewey, Montgomery, VanBuskirk
Brunke, Herlocker, Loomis, Merdian, Lewis
Larson L. Anderson

Led by Captain Strawbridge, who scored 20 points, the Siwashers downed the strong Western five 39 to 37. It was a battle from start to finish with the lead changing hands innumerable times.

Invading Ripon and Beloit in the next two games, Knox succeeded in downing Ripon 38 to 26, but lost a bitterly fought overtime battle to Beloit, 38 to 32. Lewis, Wellman and Strawbridge divided the scoring honors in both contests.

Again scoring 20 points, Capt. Strawbridge led the Purple cagers to an easy 45 to 32 victory over Augustana in the return game at Rock Island.

Playing "heads-up" basketball, Knox downed the fast Illinois College five at Jacksonville, 34 to 29.

Exhibiting none of their previous speed and scoring ability the Siwash quintet dropped a listless game to Lawrence, 32 to 26. Lack of practice, caused by Trevor's illness, may have accounted for the poor showing of the Knox team.

An early second half rally by Western enabled them to chalk up a 40 to 34 win over Knox at Macomb, and wrecked all hopes of a Knox championship. Wellman and Strawbridge were high scorers.

In spite of the fact that Strawbridge was on the bench because of illness, Knox defeated Cornell 38 to 27. Kemp, playing in his place, scored 11 points to lead both teams in individual scoring.

In the final game of the season the Siwash basketballers crushed the Monmouth five by a 28 to 19 count. Playing a brilliant defensive game, Knox allowed the Scots only 3 points the entire first half. Chet Wellman was high scorer with a total of 9 points.

Mgr. Sturtevant

Lomax

Strawbridge

Wellman

STANLEY LOMAX—His work as a regular guard during the past two seasons earned Lomax the co-captaincy of the cage team for next year.

TED STRAWBRIDGE—"Straw" captained the team during the past season and set a good example for his mates by leading the team in scoring. He was selected as all-conference center in the Midwest loop.

CHESTER WELLMAN—Next to Strawbridge, Wellman was the most consistent scorer on the squad. Chet will captain the team next year along with Lomax.

THOMAS KELLY—Kelly was a small but speedy forward who usually managed to put new life in the Siwasher's offense whenever given the chance.

Jamieson

Lewis

Kemp

ROBERT JAMIESON—"Jamie" won his third basketball letter this year. His loss through graduation will be keenly felt next winter.

JOHN LEWIS—Lewis was the only sophomore on the first five. His height made him a dangerous man underneath the basket and he was especially proficient at the free throw line.

DAN KEMP—Dan won his second basketball letter this year. Although he did not play regularly during the early part of the season, he always came through with a much needed basket or two when called upon.

GEORGE BOWMAN—Bowman served notice during the times that he saw action that he is going to make a strong bid for a regular guard berth during the next two seasons.

Track, 1931

E. R. Jackson's 1931 track team won the first dual meet of the season from Western Teachers of Macomb by a score of  $69\frac{1}{2}$  to  $60\frac{1}{2}$ . The outcome of the meet was undecided until the final event, the mile relay which the Siwashers won in the fair time of 3 minutes 39.4 seconds. Harold Holly was individual high scorer with eleven points. Vic Frary with firsts in the mile and two mile scored ten points, while Paul and Sperry captured nine and seven points respectively. Considering the lack of seasoned material the victory was a special surprise to the Siwash track men and fans alike. In the second dual meet of the year Knox lost to Monmouth by a 75 to 56 score. The Scots' few outstanding stars were able to gather enough points to defeat the Siwash team which was handicapped by numerous injuries.

Captain Sherman

On the following Saturday Knox ran over Cornell at Mt. Vernon, Ia., 73 to 56. Although the weather previous to the meet allowed for only limited practice, the team came through in fine shape and annexed a decisive scoring victory over the Iowa team. Holly was high point man, taking three firsts in the field events, the discus, pole vault, and the shot put. Sperry took

Sherman

Beattie

CHESTER SHERMAN—With a reputation as one of the best quarter milers in the state, Chet was chosen to captain the 1931 track team. Although greatly handicapped all season by an injured knee, Sherman came through to place third in the Little Nineteen meet.

BILL BEATTIE—The "Beagle" was another Siwasher who would have done much better if he hadn't been bothered all season by injuries. As it was, he placed well in the Little Nineteen meet and was elected to captain the 1932 team.

GRAY CARDY—Cardy was a valuable addition to the Siwash team from Lombard. He usually managed to be up among the point winners in both hurdle events.

RUSSELL VOORHEES—Russ was a mighty capable manager, jolly, hard-working. He worked hard on the lame legs and bumpy track. His work kept both in the pink of condition all year.

Captain-elect Beattie

Rinehart

Menke

Holly

BILL RINEHART—The 440 and 880 yard runs were Rinehart's events. He usually managed to gather points in at least one of these events and he was a member of the mile relay team.

BILL MENKE—The high jump was Menke's specialty. He earned enough points in the dual meets to win a letter and did exceptionally well for his first year of intercollegiate competition.

HAROLD HOLLY—Holly was high point man on the Knox squad. He competed in nearly all the field events, heaving the shot, throwing the discus, and competing in both the pole vault and high jump.

IVAN JONES—Jones was the Siwasha's best bet in the javelin throw. He placed third in both the Little Nineteen and Midwest meets.

Paul

Frary

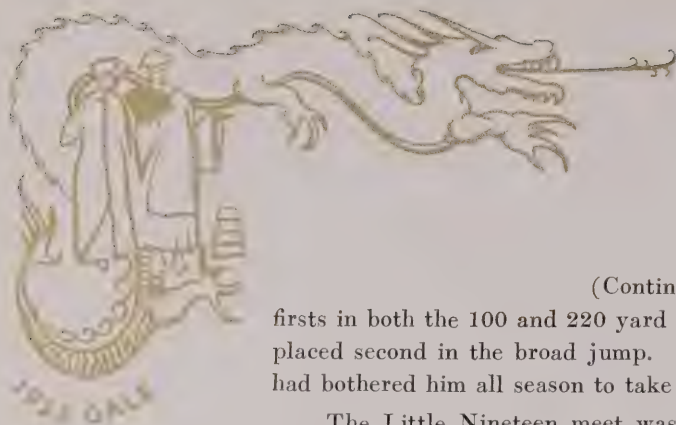

Hesson

JEROME PAUL—Paul proved his ability in the dashes by consistently placing among the first three in the dual meets. He also ran on the mile relay team.

VIC FRARY—Frary, a sophomore, showed his heels to the other runners in the mile and two mile events in the very first meet, indicating that he should be a mainstay on the Knox team for three years.

EDWARD HESSON—Hesson was another newcomer to the Knox team during the 1931 season. He displayed his ability by placing third in the broad jump at the Midwest conference meet.

DAVE SPERRY—Sperry was the ace of the Knox dash men, winning points in all the dual meets and placing among the point winners in both the Little Nineteen and Midwest meets.

firsts in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Hesson, a newcomer on the Knox team, placed second in the broad jump. Beattie recovered enough from the injuries that had bothered him all season to take first in the high hurdles and second in the lows.

The Little Nineteen meet was scheduled for the next week. Knox with but  $13\frac{1}{2}$  points placed the lowest in years, finishing in seventh position. Considering the dearth of experienced material, the numerous injuries, and the fact that the competition was fastest in those events where the Siwashes' strength was greatest, Coach Jackson was well pleased with the work of his squad. The Knox points came when Captain Sherman placed third in the 440 yard dash, when Beattie placed fifth and tied for fourth in the two hurdle events, when Ivan Jones was third best in the javelin throw and Sperry placed fifth in the 220 yard dash. The remaining Siwash points were gathered in the relay as the team of Paul, Cardy, Rinehart, and Sherman finished second.

On the following Saturday the Knox team again tasted defeat, taking fourth in the Midwest conference meet with 20 points. Beattie, Sherman, Sperry, Cardy, Jones, Hesson, and the mile relay team scored for Knox. At the end of the season Bill Beattie was elected captain for the ensuing year.

Knox chances for a winning team were lowered all season by the fact that Captain Sherman and Bill Beattie were bothered all season with leg injuries. Sherman, one of the best quarter milers in the state, was unable to really get going all season because of a knee injury received during the football season.

Baseball, 1931

The 1931 season was the last of baseball at Knox. There was a lack of interest in the games among the student body, and when the college cut down on athletic appropriations, they cut down entirely on baseball. The 1931 season was paid for by popular subscription among the student body.

It would have been fitting if baseball had gone out in a blaze of glory, but the last season did not show a perfect record. The pitchers, Spiegler, Jamieson, and Alford, had hard luck all season.

Captain Kusenda

A rainy spring cancelled several practices; there were a number of injuries to the team. The lack of interest among students and townspeople and the lack of finances to provide equipment made the season a rather difficult one. The team could hit and field, but these other factors were almost too much.

The team played a heady game. Such veterans as Shea, Murphy, Jamieson, and Alford used their brains as much as their arms. The whole squad hustled, and was always in there to work. With Farnsworth, Spiegler, Jamieson, Matkovicik, and others all back this year, prospects for a winning team would be bright.

Captain Kusenda did mighty fine work in holding down his position on the first sack. During the whole season he was constantly in there cajoling the team to better efforts. It was largely due to Kusie's efforts that baseball was not abolished this year.

Larson

Kusenda

Murphy

Gold

Alford

Divis

Manager Larson handled the affairs of the team in the best way possible. He kept the equipment and the diamond in the best of shape at all times, and the details of the trips and games were well worked out.

Whenever a grounder came anywhere near second, Bill Divis was always there for it. He always came in for his share of hits. Whenever Ole signalled for a bunt, Bill always obliged and what's more, he usually beat them out.

Jack Murphy always played a good brand of ball. Once he fell down in the Macomb game out in center and became mired in the soggy mud, thus letting McCormick get a home run. But in spite of that little incident, Jack's record is unmarred.

Bob Jamieson, better known as "Scotch", alternated between pitcher and short during the season. He was capable in both positions so that Ole just had to have him in the game. His line of chatter continually rattled the man at bat.

"Bink" Alford made a good record in the second Monmouth game when he was put in at the beginning of the seventh. During this time he didn't allow a single hit and struck six men out. For work on the mound, he couldn't be beaten.

Lou Spiegler's specialty was right field, although he was called on to pitch at times. In the third Monmouth game he remained on the mound for thirteen innings and allowed only seven runs to come in.

Shea, our catcher, nearly broke his neck during one of the games when he dove over the visiting team's bench to catch a foul fly. The best part of it was that he came up grinning with the ball in his mitt. He could always be depended on to get his share of hits and to keep up that old line of talk that helps to win games.

Jamieson

Spiegler

Shea

Hetzner

Farnsworth

Jones

Until Jack Murphy became eligible, Ivan Jones played center. His specialty was home runs. He didn't quite keep up with the Babe, though. If we had a team this year he would have had a steady position out in the tall grass.

Benny Farnsworth, otherwise known as Art Shires, played out in left. Almost every time up he got a good hit. His work out in field was good.

George Gold managed to keep the hot spot out on third cool most of the time. He kept cool and his line kept the team pepped up all the time.

"Teeney" Hetzner could always be depended upon when someone was out. His specialty was out in the weeds. He always swung a hefty stick when it was needed.

When Shea was out, Don Kennedy called the signals. He had a level head and could always figure out what the batter would bite on.

Tennis, 1931

The Knox tennis team had a somewhat mediocre season in 1931. In their first dual meet of the season they won from Macomb, four matches to two, but in the next meet Coe beat them five matches to one, Sandeen and Gray winning a doubles match.

In the Little Nineteen meet held at Knox, Gray and St. Clair were eliminated before the quarter finals. That meet was won from Perce of Lake Forest by Baymiller of Bradley. Marker and Dorris of Normal won the doubles from Baymiller and Taylor of Bradley.

A dual meet with Western was rained out and Knox, a few days later, made little progress in the Midwest meet.

St. Clair and Gray were the Knox representatives in all singles matches. Both are fine players, with plenty of spirit, and were rather unfortunate in their drawings at the various tournaments. St. Clair was ranked number one man for two years, Gray receiving that ranking in 1932.

Rose and Sandeen participated in the dual meets. Both showed need of experience. Rose showed great possibilities of developing into a real player, and another year of varsity competition would have made Sandeen a man to be respected on any court. Pennington and Barron were in several matches and showed flashes of real ability at times.

Dean Trevor coached the team last year. Trevor is an able player himself, and can develop players to a high degree of efficiency.

Dyson

Glaub

Helfrich

Golf, 1931

Knox golfers were the best in the Little Nineteen in 1931. In the conference meet Dyson was medalist, while Glaub tied for second and Helfrich placed fourth in the individual standings. Earlier in the season Dyson, Helfrich, Glaub, and Switzer met a foursome from Monmouth in a dual meet at Lincoln Park, Galesburg's municipal golf links, and although Jupiter Pluvius held full sway throughout the afternoon, the Siwashers won by a score of 9 to 3. Match play was in order with one point for the first nine, one for the second nine, and one for the total eighteen holes being used for the scoring system. A previously scheduled match with Western Teachers was called off because of the inability of the Macomb golfers to arrange their schedule.

A rather intricate method of selection was used in choosing the varsity golf team with tryouts being held a couple of times before the winners could be selected. The first tryout was held on April 25 with about ten golfers competing. After splashing their way around the eighteen holes in the midst of a man sized cloudburst, it was found that so many of the matches had ended in dead heats, that a second tryout was deemed advisable.

Accordingly on the following Saturday eighteen men entered the turney. Dyson, Helfrich, Glaub, and Switzer were the lowest in medal score and thereby made the team. The tryout tourney was opened to freshmen and medals were awarded for the first four places. In this phase of the tournament, Schatz, Helfrich, and Dyson tied for first while Glaub took fourth. Dyson won the playoff.

Swimming, 1932

The Knox swimming team had a rather short season this year. Social events interfered at the time of the state meet and Knox was kept from taking any part in it. The team was able, however, to take part in an invitational meet at Monmouth, which they won handily.

Only three lettermen participated in the meet at Monmouth, Lou Spiegler, Ray Beardsley and Bill Weaver. Ken Dyar, Charles Sowell, Cuthbert Hall, Jack Zinser, and Gail Mathers all helped to win the meet by picking up points here and there. Knox won six of seven events and scored 51 points to double the total of their nearest competitor. Ray Beardsley won thirteen points and Hall and Weaver nine each. Knox took the four-man and the medley relays; Hall took first in the 50 yard free style, followed in third and fourth places by Dyar and Beardsley. Weaver and Sowell annexed first and third in the 100 yard free style. Beardsley got first in the 50 yard backstroke, and Spiegler, Zinser and Mathers scored a slam in the 50 yard breaststroke. Beardsley and Weaver took second and third in diving, to finish up the total of 51 points.

Knox loses her mainstays, Spiegler and Beardsley, by graduation this year. Their loss will be keenly felt, but such men as Hall, Weaver and Zinser remain to compete in the future. It is hoped that the team may go to the state meet next year.

Faculty Tennis

Tennis and golf are the only sports in which the Knox faculty have interscholastic competition. Trevor and Churchill of Knox won the state faculty doubles at Monmouth last year and, with Mr. Latimer, stand a chance to repeat this year.

Intramural Sports, 1931-32

No fraternity can hope to attain success in intramural sports without the help of a good manager. All teams entered have been very fortunate in their choice of managers this year, as only one or two contests have been forfeited for lack of competitors. The managers are responsible for drawing up all schedules and for performing for their teams the same functions as any varsity manager.

Paul Johnson was Phi Gam manager. He was a hard and heady worker, and by his management and skillful participation in intramurals, helped them win the volleyball championship and keep in the running at all times.

Don Bellinger, Sigma Nu manager, did not have much luck with his teams this year. This was not Don's fault, however, and he deserved better luck.

John Smith was the Phi Delt manager. He helped his boys to win the track cup for keeps and to keep in practice for all sports the year round, by his work as manager and coach.

Another letterman, Bob Jamieson, put the Tekes into the midst of intramurals this year. The Tekes won no championships, but were always tough competition for any team.

The Lambda Chis had a bad year, but not through any fault of Tom Matkovicik, always a hard worker for his men.

Bob Ostler will probably be judged the best manager of the year. From a wealth of material, he managed three championship teams. It is largely due to Bob's efforts that the Betas were always in practice.

Glenn Baker had a rather bad year with the Phi Sigs, but he did well considering his material. "Woody" is always a hard worker.

The Cook Trophy

The Cook trophy was first awarded in 1923-1924. It is for this trophy that all teams compete in intramural sports. Organizations are awarded five points for victory in each team contest, and receive a bonus for winning a championship. Six sports are counted in awarding this trophy: volleyball, swimming, basketball, track, tennis, kittenball. Cross country was formerly a scoring competition, but has been abolished.

The first Cook trophy was won in 1929, by Beta Theta Pi, who had won it three different years. Phi Delta Theta has held the second trophy the last two years.

The standings so far this year are:

Commons Club, five points (basketball).

Beta Theta Pi, one hundred fifty-one points (basketball and swimming championships, track and volleyball).

Lambda Chi Alpha, ten points (basketball).

Phi Delta Theta, eighty four and one-half points (track championship, swimming, basketball, volleyball).

Phi Gamma Delta, ninety-four points (volleyball championship, swimming, track, basketball).

Phi Sigma Kappa, five points (basketball).

Sigma Nu, twenty six and one-half points (track, volleyball).

Tau Kappa Epsilon, forty six points (swimming, track, basketball, volleyball).

The W. A. A.

The Knox Woman's Athletic Association, founded in 1914, originally the "K" Club, is a branch of the Athletic Council of American College Women, (commonly known as A. C. A. C. W.) It is run on a point basis—points are awarded (1) to those playing on a class team chosen from all those out for practice—100 points, (2) to those receiving position on second teams—50 points, and (3) to those who have been out for all practices but failed to make either a first or second team—25 points. For full membership in W. A. A. one must have earned two hundred points and for associative membership one hundred points. A white sweater or blazer with a Knox "K" is given as an award for the accumulation of one thousand points. The four who have won this recognition are: Henrietta Memler, senior—won during her junior year; Edith Prescott, senior; Irma Brodman, junior; Erma Coffman, junior. The highest award given in W. A. A. was won by Helen Staggs, '31, at the last meeting of the year 1931. The senior girl who has throughout her four years of college best represented the ideals of W. A. A. is designated as the "best all around athlete". The choice is made by the junior members of the council on the grounds of sportsmanship, co-operation, versatility, excellence in athletics, and a scholastic average of at least a "C".

The work of the organization is carried on by the student officers and council, with the supervision of the faculty advisor, Miss Helen Lowes. The officers for the past year have been: Mary Alice Gibson, President; Henrietta Memler, Vice-president; Roberta Harlan, Secretary; Helen Ortman, Treasurer. Each member of the council is afforded experience in leadership as manager of activities. The council was composed of: Marian Peterson, hockey manager; Jane Gray, soccer manager; Louise Winterburn, horseshoe manager; Frances Bohle, volleyball manager; Enid Robinson, basketball manager; Margaret Post, baseball manager; Dolores Yahn, archery manager; Edith Prescott, tennis manager; Jean Willis, manager of all minor sports; Lee Riggs, social chairman.

More women came out for hockey than for any other fall sport. Competition was unusually strong for the class teams and the inter-class tournament was the closest of the year. The sophomores, having beaten the junior and senior teams, lost to the freshmen by a score of one to nothing—thereby dividing the championship with the seniors, who had won all but the sophomore game.

Soccer, for the first time a W. A. A. activity, had over forty out for practice. From this number two teams were chosen and fifty points given to each member, since there was no inter-class competition.

As a culmination of several weeks of practice, a horseshoe tournament was held November 14-16. The sixteen entrants were divided into two groups. In the one section, Enid Robinson won, in the other, Arlene Philblad.

Another innovation was the tap dancing class, taught by Miss Lowes. Fifteen from the class, in co-operation with an aesthetic dancing class (not a W. A. A. activity) entertained at a Y. W. C. A. meeting at the close of the course.

Volleyball, offered at the same time, had one of the largest turn-outs of all sports. The seniors, who usually have the fewest out, did not have enough to be represented in inter-class competition. There were over forty sophomores, however, and two teams of equal ability were chosen from this number. The championship was won decisively by the junior team which defeated the freshmen, the sophomores, and a combined sophomore team.

Basketball practice was held from February 9 to March 20th and the inter-class tournament played the week of March 24th. The sophomores took their second class championship in this sport.

Archery is an activity which has become particularly popular during the last several years. Its definite period on the program is, as baseball, from March 29 till June 1. Such is the interest, however, of the archers that they shoot any time during the year when weather permits. On the morning of Dad's Day, a telegraphic meet was held between Bradley and Knox. The results were wired and the Knox team came out far ahead of its opponent, by a score of 1567-1123. In November, a group motored with Miss Lowes to Peoria and entered the Kickapoo Country Club tournament. In spite of the fact that the majority of entrants were adults with years of practice, the Knox girls ranked high. Dolores Yahn placed third. Virginia Lee Effland and Betty Husted also showed much skill.

To receive credit for hiking, one must report a total of a hundred miles. To date, Ilah Rutherford has been the only one to have reached this goal.

A new plan of the year was that of entertaining girls from neighboring small high schools. On November fifteenth, the Knox association was host to over seventy girls representing fourteen schools. The girls and their instructors who arrived Saturday morning were divided into teams and played various games. A luncheon was held in the main dining room of Whiting Hall. Mrs. Glidden and Dean Poor welcomed the guests, and talks explaining the value of athletics were delivered by Miss Lowes, Mary Alice Gibson, and Irma Brodman. A visiting instructor responded and expressed thanks to the association for the opportunity of visiting Knox and of coming in contact with those from other schools. The team schedule continued during the afternoon. The Play Day proved such a success that plans are under way to repeat it next fall.

Girl athletes took an important part in the entertainment for Dad's Day. From 9:30 until 12:00 two teams, the purple and the gold, demonstrated volleyball, hockey, and pin ball. The archery meet with Bradley took place at 11:00. This was the first time the Dads had seen this particular girls' sport.

Helen Staggs

Mr. Herbert J. Reynolds, South Park Commissioner, and his wife were guests of the organization on January twenty first. Throughout the afternoon, Mr. Reynolds coached volleyball games. He was the guest speaker at the W. A. A. dinner meeting that evening, telling of the development of volleyball and of the work done by the commission in setting rule standards and perfecting play.

Perhaps the most outstanding social achievement of the year was the convention held on April eighth and ninth. Since there was to be no national conference of A. C. A. C. W., the suggestion was followed that the smaller mid-western colleges have a convention of their own to discuss problems relating to their own organizations. The Knox chapter taking the initiative sent out

Merdian, Winterburn, Mowat, Memler, Price, A. Anderson, Rutherford
Evans, D. Shearer, Coffman, Gibson, Prescott, Milgrim, McGaan
Orwig, Wetmore, McLaughlin, Bowman, DeCoster, K. Fleming

invitations to all the small colleges within a radius of two hundred miles. (The large colleges and universities were excluded, for the problems of the small school and the large are essentially different). Fourteen colleges were represented.

The two girls who represented Knox were Irma Brodman and Mary DeCoster.

The convention was under the supervision of Miss Lowes, Mary Alice Gibson—W. A. A. president, and the committee heads.

The guests, arriving Friday morning, were registered and assigned to rooms by members of Mortar Board. Luncheon was served in Whiting Hall followed by the first general meeting in the Knox Theatre at two o'clock. Mrs. Glidden, Dean of Women, gave the welcoming address and Miss Lowes explained the system arranged for the discussion groups.

Twenty seven discussions, an hour each, were held during the two days. The subjects were chosen from a questionnaire previously sent out and were those relating to the small school.

The high point of the convention was the banquet Friday evening, in the main dining room of Seymour Hall. 105 students and instructors gathered, their places at tables arranged as for Play Day to group together those from different schools. Mary Alice Gibson, toastmistress, introduced Mr. Adamec, who praised the fact that women, unlike men, do not place emphasis on the skilled athlete, but rather offer athletic participation to all on an equal basis. Professor Coleman R. Griffith of the University of Illinois was guest speaker. Professor Coleman chose as his subject "The Four Fallacies in Health Education".

At the final meeting Saturday morning, a committee was appointed to arrange for a future convention such as this.

Homecoming, 1931

With the slogan "Why Not Knox?" alumni, faculty, and students celebrated the eleventh annual Knox Homecoming, October 23, 24, and 25, 1931. The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of Russell Johnson, Harry Miller, John Mergener, Mary Alice Gibson, Lee Riggs, Mary Alice Rolfe, Betty Test, Wilfred Woollett, Jesse Bogue, Jane Francia, Erma Coffman, and Bob Gustafson.

The lid was officially blown off at the Annual Homecoming Play—this year, "Old Heidelberg", by Wilhelm Meyerforster, with Harriet Davidson and David Painter as bar-maid and Prince, respectively. Following the play which was a success if anything ever was, everyone enjoyed watching the bonfire the Freshman men had built on Willard Field and, incidentally, there was a little yelling. According to the schedule the first day was over. One has no right to delve further than the schedule.

The Annual Parade of Floats was docketed for 10:30 Saturday morning. Sure enough at 11:15 it got under way. And what a Parade! Commons Club, the Tri Deltas, and L. M. I. got the prizes in the three divisions. In answer to pangs of hunger the celebrators split up to eat with their respective organizations.

At 2:30 P. M. (as per schedule) the referee (Horton) blew his whistle and Illinois College kicked off. The game could have been improved upon in many respects—notably, in the score, which stood 7-7, when hostilities ended. But Knox should be thankful for her "7" which represented a long, late, hard, march down the field.

At 6:15 P. M., after the effects of the football game had worn off, Knox of the present and of the past had dinner at Lyman K. Seymour Hall. ("The 'Hall' boys still remember the luscious menu). After dinner the Hunter Award for Scholarship and Athletics was given to Frank Wilson (of Knoxville). The float prizes were also presented, as well as the prize for the best decorated fraternity house—the Phi Gamma Delta House. (Four times for the Phi Gams!)

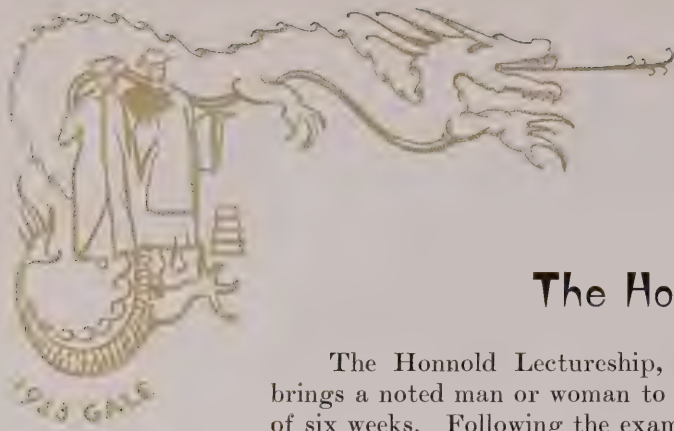

Some of the Homecomers could have sat around and talked all night, but there were other things to be done. At 8:30 there was a big dance and fifteen minutes later the second performance of "Old Heidelberg" was on the boards. (You've got to hand it to Doc Foley when it comes to putting on plays). With the final curtain another Homecoming Day was officially closed. (However, there are rumors that the Phi Gams and the Tekes did some late, or early, serenading. Pardon the relapse into the unofficial).

Sunday was spent in recuperating from the festivities and in settling back to the regular Monday—Tuesday—Wednesday—Thursday—Friday—Saturday—Sunday routine—Everybody had had a good time.

After all—Why Not Knox?

The Honnold Lecturer

The Honnold Lectureship, founded by William L. Honnold in 1929, brings a noted man or woman to the college each year to give a lecture course of six weeks. Following the example set by the choice of Ida Tarbell, Elwood Hendrick, and Will Irwin, the lectureship brought Frank Ernest Hill, prominent American author and editor, to the college this year.

Mr. Hill has had a well-rounded career that enabled him to speak from experience on his subject, "What is American". He was graduated from Stanford University in 1911, A.B., and received his M.A. in 1914. Following this, he taught at Stanford and Columbia. While the United States was in the World War he was in active service in aviation for six months. After the war, he became interested in journalism, especially editorial writing. He became a member of the editorial staff of the New York "Globe" and book editor of the New York "Sun". He helped to found "The Measure"; he has written poetry for several leading magazines including "The New Republic", "The Nation", and "The Commonwealth". Mr. Hill has also collaborated in the writing of several books, notably "The Winged Horse Anthology", and with Jacob Auslander in "The Winged Horse".

During the time that Mr. Hill was at Knox, he gave four public lectures in addition to the regular course for the students. The first was entitled "The Poet Faces the Machine Age", the second was on Chaucer, the third "Books, Authors and Publishers", the last on "What is American". As usual, the enrollment for the course was very large.

The Carnegie Grant

Knox College was singularly fortunate this year in receiving a grant of ten thousand dollars for the purchase of books for the library by the Carnegie Corporation. This grant will be paid in three yearly installments, three thousand and five hundred dollars this year and three thousand dollars in each of the next two years. Grants of this kind are made by the Carnegie Corporation to those institutions where the library policy and administration meet with the approval of the Board of Trustees of the Corporation.

These grants are being made for the purpose of standardizing the equipment of college libraries, so that the college student, no matter where he studies, will have at his disposal the most modern and up-to-date material. The grant will probably be used at Knox in the purchasing of subscriptions to various scientific magazines, of encyclopedias in various foreign languages, and of reading matter in general to balance the various departments of the library.

This page is dedicated to: that shining light of Knox Athletics, our swimming team; and to those crusaders for virtue in Student Government, the girls of the Mortar Board.

Hear, hear, her tale of woe:

Her costume could not stand.
He took her out unto the beach
And left her on the sand.

The fraternity dormitory is one of those things which seldom comes in for its due share of publicity. Here we attempt to do justice to this much slighted but important phase of college life. Above is a typical cranny in any such dormitory. Note the luxurious appointments. The hanging clock is placed in such a position that it can be turned off at an instant's notice, insuring little loss of sleep on the part of the inmate. The bed is adjustable to the whim of the person occupying it; for example, when the occupant lies down, the bed frequently lies down too. The cunning little bird perched on the window sill has just succeeded in a perseverant attempt to push an ash tray to the ground.

Lawrence D. Johnson, Secy.

dear diary: well, the year is over. it surely went fast, though. gee, but i had a good time. next year i won't be a freshman anymore either.

ishy fishy is just grand. he is going to take me to the depot when i go home.

there were a lot of seniors, though, that i wanted to date before they were through school. i always wanted to go with johnny fisher in his swell roadster. i wish bruce primm had taken me out just once, but that de coster woman hung on to him pretty tight. then there was mark gault and his big pipe and bob me nown, the woman hater. i also liked those he-men, ken dyar and frank wilson. but heck, they wouldn't give me a break. they're all graduated now, anyway.

school's over for the year anyhow, and i could even smile at that big galoot of a mickey mc hickey now. gosh, there's ishy's horn, and i'm not ready.

yours until billy's alexander,
